

Dorothy G. Singer

Dorothy G. Singer is a senior research scientist in the Department of Psychology, Yale University. She is also co-director, with Jerome L. Singer, of the Yale University Family Television Research and Consultation Center. An expert on early childhood development, television effects on youth, and parent training in imaginative play, she has written 20 books and more than 150 articles. Her latest books are: Handbook of Children, Culture and Violence; Play=Learning; Handbook of Children and the Media; Make-Believe: Games and Activities for Imaginative Play; Imagination and Play in the Electronic Age; and Children's Play: Roots of Reading (edited by E. Zigler, D. Singer, and S. Bishop-Josef), which was selected for CHOICE's Outstanding Academic Title list. Dr. Singer is a Fellow of the American Psychological Association (APA) and received the award for Distinguished Scientific Contributions to the Media by Division 46 of APA in 2004.